

The Office Supply Dilemma

On Monday morning, Alan from procurement noticed the office was running low on printer paper. He sent an email to Janet in supply management.

Janet replied, "Noted. I'll order more."

By Wednesday, the paper had not arrived. Alan sent a follow-up email. Janet responded, "There was a slight delay, but it should arrive soon."

On Thursday, the paper was delivered. Alan restocked the supply closet.

On Friday, he printed a report.

It printed successfully.

The end.